

Course: Environmental Protection and Sustainable Development YTG0060ECTS credits: 3.0

Learning outcomes in the course: Understanding interactions between wild and inanimate nature, species interaction and human impacts on nature; knowing the principles of sustainable development and environmental protection, main environmental problems, their causes, results and prevention and ability to consider them in professional and everyday life.

Grading method	Grading criteria
Home assignment	Studies with additional materials and books.
Pass/fail assessment	Written test with questions about various aspects of environmental protection and sustainable development in topics discussed in lectures and obligatory literature. In exceptional cases (prior agreement with the course organiser) an oral examination is possible.
Eligibility for assessment	Topics of lectures and home assignments understood.
Final Grading	Student has passed the course after gaining 51% of the possible credits.